NORFOLK, Va. — The U.S. Navy encourages the public to attend an open house public meeting to learn about and provide comments on the Draft Environmental Impact Statement/Overseas Environmental Impact Statement (EIS/OEIS) for Navy training and testing activities conducted in the Atlantic Fleet Training and Testing (AFTT) Study Area.

The public meetings are scheduled from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., and will be conducted as an open house information session. Further details can be found at www.AFTTEIS.com.

The Navy proposes to conduct training and testing activities – which may include the use of active sonar and explosives – primarily within existing range complexes and testing ranges along the east coast of the United States, the Gulf of Mexico, Navy pierside locations, port transit channels, and the lower Chesapeake Bay. The Proposed Action also includes activities such as sonar maintenance and gunnery exercises conducted concurrently with ship transits and which may occur outside Navy range complexes and testing ranges. The Proposed Action includes pierside sonar testing conducted as part of overhaul, modernization, maintenance and repair activities at shipyards and Navy piers, as well as new construction and overhaul at Navy-contracted shipbuilder locations.

The AFTT Draft EIS/OEIS updates the science and analyses needed to continue critical Navy training and testing in the Study Area. The Draft EIS/OEIS combines multiple previous studies into one, thereby incorporating expanded areas, and new science, platforms, and activities including ship shock testing on the east coast. Results from these studies show Navy activities continue to have negligible affects on marine mammal and turtle populations, including endangered species. Monitoring of Navy activities over the past several years supports these conclusions.
